

Communication and Translation: Caretakers and Kin, and Non-Speaking Autistic Individuals

What will you do?

- An in-person interview and discussion
- You'll be asked about your experiences around communication with non-speaking autistic individuals
- Participation is voluntary and all information will be kept confidential

Who can take part?

- Caretakers or family of a non-speaking adult autistic individual
- Comfortable speaking English
- Based in the UK
- 18+

Why is this study important?

This research intends to better understand the challenges associated with communication with non-speaking individuals and to understand what are effective support strategies for the future.

Who is doing the study?

This project is run by a Postgraduate researcher, Samantha Ortega. It has ethical approval from the School of Social and Political Science at the University of Edinburgh as a part of the MSc in Medical Anthropology.

If interested, please reach out to Samantha Ortega at s.h.ortega@sms.ed.ac.uk

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH